

Reducing alcohol harm

What's being done in Derbyshire

June 2010 edition

The Derbyshire context

- Derbyshire's rate of hospital admissions for alcohol related harm is worse than the England average and the highest of all shire counties in the Midlands. Chesterfield has the fourth highest rate of 40 local authorities in the East Midlands. Rates in all Derbyshire districts and boroughs have risen since 2002-03 (between 41% and 126%).
- Approximately 112,000 people in Derbyshire are hazardous or harmful drinkers. Of these, around 69,000 visit their GP every year and would benefit from screening and brief interventions.
- Around 19,000 people are alcohol dependent. Over 90% of those are probably not accessing local treatment services.
- There were around 15,000 alcohol related hospital admissions in 2008-09.
- Most districts in Derbyshire have above average alcohol specific mortality rates for females – Bolsover significantly so.
- Derbyshire has significantly higher rates of female alcohol specific hospital admissions than England – this is particularly a problem in Chesterfield.
- High Peak, Chesterfield, Bolsover and North East Derbyshire remain in the top ten of 40 local authorities in the East Midlands for high under-18 alcohol specific hospital admissions.
- People under the age of 30 are moving away from heroin use and are tending to use a variety of drugs in combination with alcohol, which adds to the complexity of dealing with alcohol issues.
- There are indications of some young people drinking heavily (Tell Us 4 survey – higher than the national average reported getting drunk three or more times over four weeks), but also fewer young people drinking overall.
- Estimated rates of three types of alcohol related crime (recorded crimes, violent crimes and sexual offences) have gone down in all districts with only one exception.

The Derbyshire partnership vision

We will minimise the harm caused to individuals, families and communities through substance misuse in Derbyshire.

Our goals

- Fewer people develop alcohol problems.
- There will be low wait times into high quality, safe and effective alcohol treatment.
- There will be less alcohol related crime and anti-social behaviour (ASB).
- Residents will have increased confidence in partner agencies understanding their concerns.

How we'll know we've achieved it

- The proportion of young people misusing alcohol will decrease.
- The increase in the rate of alcohol related hospital admissions will be slowed, particularly for under 18s.
- 95% or more clients will enter adult alcohol treatment within three weeks.
- Residents will have increased confidence in partner agencies understanding their concerns on ASB and crime.
- Perceptions of drunk and rowdy behaviour will decrease.

What we're doing

The following is a list – no doubt incomplete! – of work that is or has been undertaken to combat alcohol harm in Derbyshire. It includes work by many organisations within the wider Derbyshire Partnership – from health to police to county and district/borough community safety partnerships and more.

Notes on table

For most indicators, data is up to or before 2007-08, with the exceptions of 14-18, which cover 2008-09. Therefore, many of the indicators will not reflect work undertaken during the current LAA period (2008-11).

- The Local Alcohol Profiles, published by the North West Public Health Observatory (NWPHO), contain figures for each local authority on 23 indicators (one of these, on the employees in bars is not shown here).
- The table above shows results compared to England for the eight Derbyshire districts and boroughs of Amber Valley, Bolsover, Chesterfield, Derbyshire Dales, Erewash, High Peak, North East Derbyshire and South Derbyshire, as well as overall figures for the Derbyshire County PCT area.
- Data source: Local alcohol profiles for England www.nwph.net/alcohol/lape.
- Data relates to local authority areas except for Derbyshire data which relates to the Derbyshire County PCT area.
- Indicator 14 (NI39) is taken from data for 2008-09 from www.nwph.net/alcohol/lape/nationalindicator.htm. However, figures for Erewash and Amber Valley are still being explored for accuracy.
- Synthetic estimates for indicators 20-22 have not been updated, therefore no arrows are appropriate.
- Data for indicators A and B can be found at /www.empho.org.uk/Themes/alcohol/alcohol1.aspx.
- The time periods measured for indicators varies – for detailed data definitions please refer to the NWPHO website.

Key points

- Rates of alcohol related hospital admissions for the Derbyshire County PCT area were worse than the England average, as were the rates for Amber Valley, Bolsover, Chesterfield, Erewash and High Peak – and rates have risen in all areas since 2002-03 (between 41% and 126%).
- Derbyshire now has significantly worse alcohol specific hospital admissions for females than England.
- Chesterfield has, for the second year, the highest rates of alcohol specific hospital admissions for females out of the 40 local authorities in the East Midlands.
- Ranking within the 40 East Midlands local authorities can change considerably from year to year. However, Bolsover, Chesterfield, High Peak and North East Derbyshire remain in the top ten authorities for high rates of under 18 alcohol specific hospital admissions.
- Derbyshire has four local authorities in the top 10 East Midlands authorities for four further indicators:
 - Months of life lost for females
 - Mortality from chronic liver disease for females
 - Alcohol attributable mortality for females
 - Alcohol related hospital admissions (NI39)
- Of the eight indicators where Derbyshire fares worse than England, six are specific to women.
- All districts have improved on all three crime indicators, with the exception of sexual offences in Erewash.
- Areas that are now significantly better than England that weren't last year:
 - Bolsover: alcohol related recorded and violent crimes
 - North East Derbyshire and South Derbyshire: Alcohol specific mortality for males and mortality from chronic liver disease for males
- Areas that are now significantly worse than England that weren't last year:
 - Bolsover: Alcohol specific mortality for females and alcohol specific admissions for under 18s
 - High Peak: alcohol attributable hospital admissions for females.
- Bolsover, Chesterfield and High Peak were worse than England on a majority of indicators, while Derbyshire Dales and South Derbyshire were worse on only one indicator each.
- Most areas had a balance of improving and worsening indicators. However, Chesterfield, Derbyshire Dales, Erewash and Derbyshire had more worsening figures than improvements:
